WPG Presents At 2008 SHRM Conference

Florham Park, NJ October 6, 2008 – Christine Holmberg, Director of Strategic Partnership Development and Domniki Demetriadou, Ph.D., Director of Process Management & Assessment for the WorkPlace Group® family of companies (WPG), will give a presentation on Tuesday, November 4, 2008, at the 17th Annual Conference & Expo of the Garden State Council - Society of Human Resource Management (SHRM), at the Ocean Place Resort & Spa in Long Branch, NJ.

Staffing functions do not operate in a vacuum. Yet, we often do not pay close attention to the organizational context within which we operate. Organizational culture influences and is being influenced by the choices we make and the practices we implement. Can the manner in which we manage the interaction between staffing practices and organizational culture determine our success both personally and as a company? In Mrs. Holmberg and Dr. Demetriadou's presentation entitled The Interaction of Organizational Culture & Staffing Practices: Challenges and Opportunities, they will explore how organizational culture shapes what we do and how we shape the culture of our organization through our staffing practices.

SHRM is the largest international professional organization in the Human Resources profession. The Garden State Council – SHRM, comprised entirely of volunteers, supports the 11 affiliated SHRM chapters that cover New Jersey. At this year's conference, in addition to over 40 on-point sessions, presented by industry leaders, recognized practitioners, and subject matter experts, there will be networking opportunities with other HR professionals and over 50 HR-related vendors offering both traditional and state-of-the-art products and services.
